++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Unsettled and rather cold weather continues.

This Evening and Tonight:
Drier in most parts for a time, with some clear spells leading to an ice risk in places. However thickening cloud and rain reaches Northern Ireland around midnight, progressing quickly  east. Some hill snow in the north. Turning windy again.

Tuesday:
Rain continuing eastwards, some snow mainly on hills in the north and west. Clearer conditions  with blustery showers following, perhaps heavy with hail, thunder and hill snow.

Outlook for Wednesday to Friday:
Unsettled with showers or longer spells of rain. Often windy with coastal gales at times. Rather cold though snow mainly restricted to high ground in the north.
